English Worksheet

A. Read the comprehension given below and answer the questions that follow briefly:

My next pet was a pigeon. He was still very young. He was the most revolting bird to look at. With his feathers pushing, through the wrinkled scarlet skin, mixed with the horrible yellow down that covers baby pigeon and makes them look as they have been bleaching their hair. Because of his repulsive and obese appearance, Larry suggested we call him Quasimodo and, liking the name, without realizing the implication, I agreed.

Owing to his unorthodox upbringing, and the fact that he had no parents to teach him the facts of life, Quasimodo became convinced he was not a bird at all and refused to fly. Instead he walked everywhere. If he wanted to get onto a table, or a chair he stood below it, ducking his head and cooing in a rich contralto until someone lifted him up. This however, we had to stop, for either you carried him on your shoulder, which was risking an accident to your clothes, or else you let him walk behind. If you let him, then you had to slow down your own pace to suit his, for should you get too far ahead you would hear the most frantic and imploring coos and turn around to find Quasimodo running desperately after you, his chest pouted out with indignation at your cruelty.
